

Table of contents

	page
Foreword Stephan Blancke	1
East Asian Intelligence and Organised Crime: An Introduction Peng Wang	3
China
The Role of Guānxì for Doing Business in China A Theoretical Approach Susann Grune	13
Intelligence-led Police Investigation in the Context of the Modernisation of Economic Crime Investigation Tie Ni	35
The Death Penalty for drug offences in China and human rights - the leap of faith Saul Takahashi	71
North Korean Drug Trafficking and its evolving threat to East Asia Peng Wang, Stephan Blancke	89
WMD Proliferation Through China Ian Stewart	105
Japan
Right Wing Organisations, Organised Crime, and the State in Japan – Historical Discourses and Developments Dolf-Alexander Neuhaus	117
Japanese Intelligence in Manchuria through the Russo-Japanese War: An Overview Simon Hall	133
State Intelligence in Japan Simon Schwenke	155
Organised Crime in Japan – Yakuza and Company Koichi Shinoda	169
South Korea
Historical development of organised crime in South Korea Eunyoung Kim	183
The Long March to Gaining Control of the NIS: A short Case Study of South Korea’s National Intelligence Service Jens Rosenke	197
Organised crime in the contemporary South Korea Minwoo Yun	227
North Korea
The Soprano State: Criminal Sovereignty and Organised Crime in North Korea Joseph Fitsanakis	253

Terrorism scheme and North Korea: a focus on North Korean cyber attacks	Nicolas Levi	279
North Korean Regime Stability: The Chinese-North Korean Border Region as Test Case	Adam Cathcart, Christopher Green	291
North Korea - Still an Intelligence Problem	Stephan Blancke	303
North Korean Intelligence and the Making of a National-Security State	Joseph Fitsanakis	317
From state-organised crime to legal business: Transforming North Korea – A criminological approach	Charles von Denkowski	343
Mongolia
Mongolia confronts transnational crime issues in its new democracy	Alicia Campi	399
Intelligence Services in Democratic Mongolia	Jargalsaikhan Mendee, Adiya Tuvshintugs, Julian Dierkes	439
The historical and cultural elements behind Mongolia’s legal system and definition of crime	Alicia Campi	461
Authors		475